

I am writing to comment on the possibility of the FCC setting up a national Do Not Call List for Telemarketers. I am writing to request that you do not do anything that may lessen the effectiveness of the Indiana Law. When I moved into my home nearly three years ago, I receive up to 5 calls a night, but when the Indiana law was passed, I receive no calls from telemarketers at all. This has improved my home life a great deal. I feel that the Indiana law has protected my privacy and made my home more peaceful because of the lack of intrusions by telemarketers. I do appreciate the FCC's willingness to approach this problem, but I do not want to have anything that will lessen the effectiveness of our law in Indiana. Thank you for allowing me to offer my comments.
